

CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS
Scholarship of Online Teaching and Learning

IJIOE is happy to send out a call for submissions for the Scholarship of Online Teaching and Learning journal stream. IJIOE welcomes submissions from faculty (including learning technologies and instructional design specialists) and students alike and encourages new ideas, innovations and timely articles in various aspects of contemporary online teaching and learning.

The submission deadline is May 1, 2021 for summer publication. Word count for submissions is typically 4,000-6,000.

Some examples of topic areas include:

- Conflation of COVID online learning with established online learning practices
- Continuity of teaching and learning practices and support in online environments
- Online / virtual assessment practices
